HARVARD vs. OXFORD.

The International Boat Race.

THE OXFORD CREW WINS.

Harvard Six Seconds Behind.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PRESS COMMENTS.

LONDON, August 27.—Forenoon.—The newspapers to-day publish their closing comments on the boat race. The Telegraph eulogizes the Elliott boat as light, fast and graceful; it travels well and suits the crew. "We do not expect," the Telegraph says, "that the Harvards can win the race, but the changes made by them bring the crews more on a level. On the whole, we think it will be a capital race, but that the Oxfords will defeat their gallant adversaries without difficulty. If otherwise, the Harvards must have an ovation, to show that we are not ashamed to be beaten by our excellent cousins."

The writer takes the opportunity to acknowledge to the full extent the obvious and inevitable disadvantage the Harvards have contended against. "The river and everything was change and unfamiliar, and masters as they were of the science of rowing, they had to study almost like the alphabet of a foreign language. The Oxfords, on the Charles river, would labor under similar disadvantages. All that can be said is, they add grace to victory."

The Star says: "The Americans are individually more powerful than the Oxfords, but it is thought their training is not according to the English notion of strictness."

The Daily News says: "Above all things we are anxious that the contest shall be sharp from first to last—that the victory, whether on one or the other side, shall be so hard to win as to cover the winners and losers alike with glory."

STYLE OF ROWING.

The following is the letter of Mr. Blaikie, sent to the London Times for publication:

"SIR: After it has been asserted, for the last three weeks, that the Harvard four are endeavoring to conform their style of rowing to the gentlemen they hope to meet on the river, will you permit me to say, in advance of the contest, that the assertion is groundless. We believe our style to be exactly that adopted by us in each of our last three annual races against the Yale crew. Our stroke-oar is aware of no change, and the men who follow stroke are aware of none, nor has there been any variation of our method of training or instructions. It is said, also, that the Americans will row in an English boat. That is equally incorrect. They will row in a boat built of Spanish cedar by an American builder, the frame of which we brought from home, and the lines of which are identical with those on which the boat we rowed in last year was constructed.

"If we may judge by the stress laid on these latter points in the English journals, they are deemed, as they appear to us, of some importance. We ask to place ourselves right in respect to them, so that whether we are to win or lose, the merit of our victory or the blame of our defeat may fall where it belongs.

[Signed.] WILLIAM BLAIKIE.
Secretary of the Harvard Club."

THE RACE—FIRST DISPATCH.

LONDON, August 27—Forenoon.—The impression is general that the race of to-day to Hammersmith will be a great one. The bridge at Putney has been completely barred, and no boats except those of the umpire and press will be allowed to pass. Betting is two to one and seven to four on the Oxfords. It is reported that several American gentlemen now here are prepared to stake one thousand pounds on the success of the Harvards.

SECOND DISPATCH.

The Harvard crew won the toss, and chose the Middlesex side, the outside of the semi-circle. Both boats started at five o'clock, fourteen minutes, six and a half seconds. The Oxfords arrived at the ship first at five o'clock, thirty-six minutes, forty-seven seconds. Time of the race, twenty-two minutes, forty and a half seconds.

The weather was fine and hot; there was some wind but the water was in good condition. Before the race the excitement was intense. The river bank have been lined with spectators since morning, and the cars were almost unable to carry the crowds waiting at the depots.

5:48 P. M. Greenwich time—The Oxford crew won the race by three lengths. The Harvards were six seconds behind. Time of race, 22:40½.

CHARACTER OF THE RACE.

NEW YORK, August 27.—A dispatch to the World says the great boat race between the Oxfords and Harvards took place this morning, and was witnessed by thousands upon thousands of persons. The river was beautifully smooth, and when the tide was at its height the crafts shot out from the shore at Putney aqueduct and got ready for the start. Both crews were in capital trim. At the signal a handsome get off was effected, the Oxfords jumping to the lead, but were soon overtaken and the boats rowed in this position until they neared Hammersmith bridge, where the Oxfords drew ahead, and increased their advantage until two boat lengths separated them. After the bridge was passed under, they further pulled in advance and reached Mortlake about three good lengths ahead of the Harvards. The race was the finest and most determined ever rowed.

DETAILED ACCOUNT.

LONDON, August 27.—The excitement to day over the great International boat race has been intense. The banks of the Thames have been lined with spectators since an early hour this forenoon. The city has been almost deserted and business quite neglected. Vehicles of all descriptions, bearing the Harvard and Oxford colors and heavily laden with people, crowded all the roads leading to the course, and during the entire day the roads in the vicinity of Putney, Hammersmith, Chiswick, Barnes, Mortlake, &c, were thronged with pedestrians. The Railroad Company found themselves almost unable to provide cars sufficient to carry the vast numbers in waiting at the depots. It is no exaggeration to state that probably a million of people witnessed the race.

The Harvard crew won the toss for position and chose the Middlesex side, the outside of the semi-circle. Both boats started at five o'clock, fourteen minutes and six and a half seconds. The tide at the staat was sluggish and a light south west breeze prevailed, with smooth water. The Harvards were the first to catch the water and took the lead, gaining rapidly upon their opponents and making forty-five strokes per minute against the Oxfords forty. At Bishop's Creek, three furlongs from the start, the Harvards led half a length, and gaining headway they increased their lead, as they passed the Willows. Their pace was subsequently slackened and the Oxfords pulled up, but the Harvards were still three-fourths of a length ahead at Craven Point, three-quarters of a mile from the start. The Oxfords now went on with a steady drag, but the Americans rapidly increased their lead, and at Crab Tree, a mile and an eighth from the Aqueduct, were a couple of lengths ahead. Beyond here the Harvards were taken wide, and the Oxfords, quickening their speed, reduced the gap at the Soap Works, a mile and a half from the start, to half a length. The Harvards now pulled with a magnificent burst to Hammersmith bridge, a mile and three-quarters, but in shooting the bridge lost the distance they had gained. Opposite the middle wall the Oxfords spurted and came up gradually to the Harvards, but when opposite the Doves the boats were found to be too close together and the Harvards gave way, and at Chiswick, two and a half miles, the boats were level. After proceeding fifty yards further, the Oxfords began to gain, though temporarily, and the Harvards soon got even with them. The Oxfords gained rapidly at Chiswick, where it became clear that the pace apparently told on the Harvards, who were rather wild at this part of the race. From this point the Oxfords rapidly drew ahead, in a few strokes obtaining a lead of two lengths. The Harvards rowing pluckily held them there for half a mile, when they fell astern, and the Oxfords, at thirty-eight strokes per minute, shot Barns Bridge, (3¾ miles), three lengths ahead. Along Barns Reach, the Harvards refreshed their stroke, Mr. Loring, with river water, thereby retarding their boat. The Americans then tried to spurt, but found the effort ineffectual, and the Oxfords, getting more of a lead, eventually won the race by four lengths, easing up in the last few strokes and pulling up fresh.

The Oxfords arrived at the ship at five o'clock, thirty-six minutes and forty-seven seconds, making the four and one-fourth miles in twenty-two minutes and forty and one-half seconds. The Americans were well received at the finish, and returning, landed at Barnes.

The race was a good one, and excited a degree of enthusiasm along the banks of the river utterly unknown in former races.

THE FEELING AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, August 27.—The citizens have calmly submitted to the result of the international race, all believing that had it taken place on our own waters the result would have been different. At first the excitement was intense, but when it became known that only three boat lengths between the Harvards and Oxfords decided the match, every one acquiesced in the result.

NEWS BY CABLE.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, August 27.—The Times, in an article on the Erie Railroad scandle, says: "We need not point out the darkest side of the story. The utter prostitution of justice, the utter contempt for its administration, it is plain, would be impossible, if the violators had not had good reason to believe, from past experience, that the legislature is as amenable to corrupt influences as the judiciary. These facts are well known in the States. We are not without hope that the consciousness of existing evils will lead to the only way of correcting them."

News received from Tripoli states that Miss Tina and two attendants were murdered by their own camel drivers while traveling on the Aburgosh road between Mausgrauz and Ghat.

LONDON, August 27.—The mail steamer from Rio Janiero brought as passengers the Duke of Saxe and wife, the Princess Leapoldine and family.

Latest advices from Paraguay show that a battle was imminent. The land and naval forces of allies were in motion. Official dispatches received at the Brazilian War Department announced that Gen. Parienho had commenced his march on Villa Rica and the Brazilian iron-clad fleet was steaming up the Tibicuary river to support the army and assist in the attack on Villa Rica.

He concluded with a declaration that the independence of Portugal would be sedulously preserved.

Politics in Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, August 27.—Ex-President Johnson arrived this forenoon on his way to Red Sulphur Springs. He will remain in Nashville several days.

Horace Maynard, Hamilton, of Shelby, Thomburg, of Jefferson, and other leading Radical Republicans, arrived this forenoon. They held a meeting this afternoon and adjourned till to-morrow. The object of the meeting has not transpired. Various surmises are afloat, one that they are to take steps for a thorough reorganization of the party, and as a necessary incident thereto to demand the removal of all Senter Federal office holders in the State. Another is that they contemplate during Governor Senter's absence seizing the State Government. This latter is hardly probable. The majority of those present are members of the late legislature.

THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, August 27, 1869.

Secretary Rawlins had recovered sufficiently this morning to visit the War Department for a short time.

From present appearances the forthcoming monthly statement will make a very favorable showing. Notwithstanding the heavy payments of the Government during the current month, it is now thought the reduction will reach at least two millions.

Parties direct from Fort Smith, Ark., report the Indian tribes in that vicinity as very quiet and industriously engaged in farming operations generally. The crops in that section of the State are in a most flourishing condition, cotton promising an unusually large yield. The Indians on the Fort Smith Reservation are said to be well pleased with the substitution of military for civil officers to conduct the business of the Government with them.

The Comptroller of Currency has prepared a circular to cashiers of National Banks, requesting a detailed statement of items of which their coin or specie account is composed. The information is desired for general or statistical purposes, and not with any reference to the condition of the banks in this respect. The statement is required from the morning of September 8th.

It is alleged that Bedell admitted the charge to the agent to accompany him, who visited him in his cell, but says he has been made a tool of by others.

The messenger was obliged to carry the dispatch three-quarters of a mile on horseback, part of the way through dense crowds, to the nearest telegraph station, at Mortlake, and the actual time of transmission was only twelve minutes.

Drowned, Almost.

Friday afternoon a boy of twelve years, while bathing in the Monongahela, near the southern end of the Birmingham bridge, astonished his companions by diving under a raft fifteen logs wide. In attempting a repetition of the performance he remained under the water so long a time that his associates became alarmed, and after a little search found his body and took it ashore, life to all appearance being extinct. They sent for a physician, and at once set about to resuscitate him, in which, most happily, they were successful, Dr. J. D. Thomas arriving at the river bank just as signs of returning life were apparent. The lad was carried to his home, his almost frantic mother joining the procession, her grief exchanged for joy as she observed that her boy still lived.

ON THE HILLS.

A Trip Over the Central Passenger Railway—Improvements in the New Wards—How the Day was Spent.

A "trip to the country," to the denizens of the "smoky city," is under almost any circumstances a pleasure, even to contemplate, but when realized under such circumstances as we were permitted to enjoy it yesterday, the pleasure and enjoyment is beyond description. Through the courtesy of Chas. P. Duff, Esq., we received an invitation to accompany an excursion party over the Central Passenger Railway, the acceptance of which we had no cause to regret.

THE EXCURSIONISTS.

At half past ten o'clock yesterday morning the party, consisting of the President of the Company, E. P. Jones, Esq., C. P. Duff, Esq., Secretary, Robt. Arthurs, Esq., H. W. Oliver, Jr., Chas. Jeremy, R. J. Powers, Esq., Gen. A. L. Pearson, Col. Wm. A. Herron, R. G. Herron, Superintendent of the road, and several representatives of the city press, assembled at the office of R. J. Powers, Esq., Grant street, and soon after started on the excursion in one of the new cars of the company, which had been detailed for the purpose.

AT MR. JONES'.

After a pleasant ride of about twenty-five minutes the car stopped opposite the residence of the President, Mr. Jones, where a short time was devoted to refreshments and viewing the resident's grounds, the location of which is, in the true sense of the word, delightful. After partaking of some excellent domestic wine and delicious fruit, grown upon the premises, the entire party were escorted over the grounds, from the summit of which a most charming and magnificent view is presented. Mr. Jones has in course of erection a splendid mansion, which, when completed, will be one of the finest residences in the city, and we might say with safety, in the western part of the State. The structure presents a front of 80 by 60 feet deep, with a tower 75 feet high in the centre, and is of the castellated style of architecture. The building is of brick, but is being painted stone color, and will be finished on the inside with hard wood. We regret that our limited space does not afford room for a more full description of this splendid structure, as it will not only be a credit to the city, but is an evidence of the good taste and enterprise of the proprietor.

THE TRIP CONTINUED.

After an hour spent pleasantly, the trip was resumed and a few minutes' ride brought us to the present terminus of the road, at the junction of Herron and Madison avenues, in the Thirteenth ward, where the company's car house and stables are situated.

THE STABLES.

The car house, offices and stables of the company are all under one roof. The building is a frame, two hundred and forty-two feet in length, twenty-four feet wide at one end and sixty at the other, two stories high. The lot upon which the structure stands is a triangular piece of ground, lying between Madison and Herron avenues. Over the car house a splendid hall has been arranged and will be fitted up for the use of the public. The stable is entered from the car house and is arranged for the accommodation of seventy horses and is supplied with hydrant water. Mr. George Corbit was the contractor for the construction of the stables, and also for Mr. Jones' new house, which we have referred to above.

HERRON'S HILL.

After an examination of the stables, Mr. R. G. Herron, the Superintendent of the road, took the party in charge and conducted them to his residence on Herron's Hill, at the head of Line street, a short distance from Herron avenue, where a most delicious lunch was served and dispatched by the excursionists with a zest, which gave ample evidence of their appreciation of "mine host's" way of doing things. After the lunch came cigars and a rest of a few moments, when the party were escorted to "Fort Herron," the highest point within the city limits. From this commanding eminence a most delightful view of the city and its surroundings is presented. The three rivers, Allegheny city, a large portion of the old city and the South Side boroughs can be seen on the south and west, and to the north-east lies Bloomfield, Shady side and East Liberty, while Bellfield lies at the base of the eastern side of the hill. In all the villages last named, which are now a portion of the city, a spirit of progress is manifested. Neat and tasty cottages, inhabited and in course of erection, may be seen by hundreds in every direction through the valley, while upon almost every slight eminence looms up a palatial mansion, the private residences of our capitalists. So marked is the improvement, when viewed from this point, that if continued a few years the entire scope of country between the hill and the eastern city line will present the appearance of a city.

THE CENTRAL RAILWAY.

The present company was incorporated with a capital of $30,000, under a new charter of a most liberal character, granting them the right to purchase the franchises and property of the Minersville Company, to extend their line to East Liberty and have control of all lateral roads connecting with the main line. The stock was readily taken and the company was organized by the election of the following officers: President, E. P. Jones, Esq.; Vice President and Treasurer, Max. K. Moorhead; Secretary, C. P. Duff; Superintendent, R. G. Herron; Directors, R. Arthurs, Charles Jeremy, H. L. McNish, Esqs., and H. W. Oliver, Jr. The road from Fourth avenue and Market street to its present terminus is two and a half miles in length, and having been repaired over its entire length, is in excellent condition. The Company have recently placed six new cars upon the road and have in all eleven cars and thirty-seven horses in use, but intend soon to add several cars and increase the number of horses to seventy. The road must evidently become a paying institution, in consequence of the rapid improvement of that portion of the city where it now terminates and through which it will pass when extended to East Liberty, as it will be at no distant day.

BACK TO THE CITY.

The excursion party, after having spent a delightful day, enjoying the pure fresh air from Herron's, and surrounding hills, and admiring the beauties of the surrounding country, returned to the city in the special car, when they separated, each retiring to his respective place of business, feeling greatly invigorated and well pleased with the day's entertainment.

THE TEACHER'S WORK.

Last Day of the Institute—Summing Up—Resolutions Adopted.

The Institute met at nine o'clock yesterday morning, and the exercises were opened with singing.

Mr. Taggart was announced to lecture, but was unavoidably absent. The time allotted for the lecture was occupied by brief addresses, chiefly upon the beneficial results of the Institute and the excellent manner in which it had been conducted. Remarks were made by Mr. Eberhardt, of Beaver county, Mr. Murphy, Superintendent of Armstrong county schools, Mr. Holmes, of the Franklin District, Mr. Burtt, of the Ralston District, and Mr. Squires, of the O'Hara District.

Mr. B. H. Kelly, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, submitted the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the teachers of Public Schools of the City of Pittsburgh, assembled in yearly Institute, That we rejoice that measures for the improvement of teachers are now recognized and provided for in this Commonwealth. That we hail this as another recognition by our Legislature of that great principle laid down by the illustrious founder of our State, viz.: "That which makes a good constitution must keep it, namely men of wisdom and virtue, qualities that, because they descend not with a worldly inheritance, must be carefully propagated by a virtuous education of youth."

Resolved, That inasmuch as the public school teachers of this city are paid yearly salaries, the vacations including Saturdays are paid for as well as the teaching time, and it is, therefore, their duty to attend such institutes as may be held by the authority of the city Superintendent during vacation for the benefit of the teachers, and that we request the Central Board of Education to take such action as will clearly define the duty of the teachers in this respect.

Resolved, That we protest against any Act of Assembly which would cancel teachers' certificates given as permanent, believing such action to be a violation of vested rights, degrading to the profession of teaching, and, therefore, unwise and unjust.

Resolved, That in Prof. Geo. J. Luckey, our City Superintendent, we recognize an honest and conscientious man, and appreciating his efforts to advance the cause of Common School education, we pledge him our honest co-operation to sustain him in all his efforts to elevate the educational standard of our city schools.

Resolved, That in closing the exercises of this Institute, we can truly say, "It was good for us to be here." We have been refreshed, strengthened and encouraged to enter upon the labors of the new year, and to better discharge the responsible duties devolving upon us as Teachers.

Resolved, That our thanks are due to the Directors of Ralston Sub-District for the use of their large and well arranged building for our sessions.

Resolved, We acknowledge our obligations and heartily tender our thanks to the gentlemanly reporters of the press for their very full and correct report of our proceedings. Also, to Rev. W. Evans for his very excellent and entertaing exercises in reading. Also, to Messrs. Fox and Jones, of Cleveland, for contributing so largely to the general interest of the Institute.

Resolved, That drawing should have a place in all the public schools of our city, and that we consider Bartholomew's system of Drawing as the most complete system published, and most cordially recommend its adoption by the local boards.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this Institute the practice of light gymnastics in the school room is invaluable, and should be adopted by every teacher, and that the teachers adopt means for establishing a uniform system in all our public schools.

The election for Committee on Permanent certificates, was concluded, and resulted in the election of the following: Messrs. A. Burtt, R. H. Kelly, L. H. Eaton, Philotus Dean, and Miss Jennie Ralston.

The roll was called, after which brief addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Evans, J. Hartman, and Dr. Duncan, the latter two being members of the Central Board of Education.

Mrs. Anna T. Randall was introduced and gave an elocutionary entertainment. The lady possesses great ability, and during the session of the Institute has contributed much to the enjoyment of those in attendance.

Mr. Pryor, who delivered a lecture Thursday on "Infinite Numbers," made a few remarks by way of explanation of his theory.

The Institute then adjourned, finally.

South Common, Allegheny.

The residents on Stockton avenue, west of Federal street, it would seem, are to be the last to be thought of in the prosecution of the Park improvements, although among the first to be taxed. This neglect may be owing to the fact that that portion of the Commons had already been graded and much improved at private expense, of the abutting property, and this reason for delay might suffice, if the Park or street authorities would only take care of the grounds and avenue, and keep them from perversion to unlawful uses and abuses. Express wagons are permitted day by day to occupy the grounds, and the avenue itself, almost to the exclusion of private vehicles. At the intersection of the avenue with Federal street, a wagon generally stands on the narrow space, engrossing so much of the carriage-way that a private carriage can only enter by careful driving, and this part of the avenue, being unpaved, is sadly cut up by the horses that stand there, whereby the gutter is obstructed and the drainage from above arrested, producing an unsightly mudhole. Whether is it the Park Commissioners or the Street Commissioner that should be maledicted for permitting such things to remain? Has the Mayor no duty of enforcing the ordinances, where their violation is at the same time so palpable and so culpable?

DARING VELOCIPEDE FEAT.—Prof. Jenkins, in the presence of an immense crowd of spectators, crossed the gorge below Niagara Falls on the 26th inst. on a machine of his own invention, without the velocipede motion. The machine was propelled by a groove and cog attachment.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

DAME DIMPLE.

Little Dame Dimple, so merry and wise,
Shaking your tangled locks over your eyes;
What are you plotting this sunshiny day,
Under the apple trees over the way?

All the birds know you, you queer little elf,
Sometimes I think you're a birdie yourself;
Chasing the honey-bees home as they pass,
Watching the crickets that chirp in the grass.

Where is your sun-bonnet, dainty and neat?
Where are the shoes for your bare little feet?
Little brown fingers that hide them so well,
What will you do if your secret I tell?

One chubby hand holds your frock at your knee,
Filled full of treasures most wondrous to see;
Beetles that crawled in the dust at your feet,
Grasshoppers, pebbles and clover-heads sweet.

See; there's a butterfly gleaming like gold,
Down goes the frock with its riches untold.
Dear little Dimple, we elder folks, too,
Drop our old treasures to reach for the new.

THE HUSBAND OUTWITTED.

A Game for Two to Play.

A week at the watering place, and most of the time each day spent in the company of Mr. Mainwell, the gentleman whom Miss Ellsworth's old friend, had introduced to her one morning on the piazza. She had sailed with him along the shore on the moonlight evenings, and she had danced with him in the thronged drawing rooms.

Miss Ellsworth was not a flirt, who distributed her ideals among many gentlemen, and she had found her ideal well nigh realized in Mr. Mainwell. Only the evening before, their talk had withdrawn itself from the general topic to which each had been cogenial, and in her admiration of his intelligence and manliness, she had encouraged an approach to that personal sort of conversation which relates to love and matrimony.

And now to find Mr. Mainwell this morning, with his coat off and a smith's apron on, engaged in mending a lock! He was doing it publicly. The lock was on the door that led to the middle of the front piazza where the fashionable ladies and gentlemen were sitting or promenading.

His back was towards her as she approached, leaning on the arm of her friend, Anna West. She recognized him, looked intently at him, gave her companion over to a party of young ladies near, and then stopped and spoke to him.

"Do you like that sort of work, Mr. Mainwell?" she asked.

"I do Miss Ellsworth. I believe I am a natural mechanic."

"It appears very odd to see you doing this."

"It is my trade," he replied, rising from his work and turning to her.

Her cheek blanched a little. "Your trade!" she said faintly.

"Yes, trade, Miss Ellsworth. The proprietor said the lock needed mending, and I told him I could mend it for him."

The party of girls came along just then. After wondering at Mr. Mainwell awhile, and laughing at him, they proposed a ride.

There were three carriages for them all. These would take the party.

Ned Whittaker here joined them.

"What the deuce are you about here?" he exclaimed to Mr. Mainwell. "Ah," he added, when the latter turned and glanced at him, "But while you are here you might as well enjoy yourself."

Mr. Mainwell excused himself from joining the party, and they went away, leaving him to finish his work.

Miss Ellsworth left him without any word at parting.

"It is well," he muttered to himself. "If she cannot take me as I am, she is not worthy of me. The woman that marries me must take me for myself."

He stood and looked after her until she had disappeared. She did not once turn to look back.

He gave his shoulders a shrug, compressed his lip, uttered a cynical "humph!" and turned to finish his work.

"Let it be so," he muttered, when he was through and was putting on his coat. "I thought perhaps that I had found a woman after my own heart. Amidst this world of wealth and fashion, she, too, has lost her soul. Let her go."

He avoided her thereafter. He did not seek to catch her eye for a bow of recognition. When she entered a drawing room where he was, he would go out by another way. But he was more than ever in the company of Ned Whittaker. Ned, in passing to and fro between Miss Ellsworth and him, served still as a sort of link between them.

"You are a cynical fellow," said Ned, one day. "Why don't you take the people as they are?" You will find good enough in them."

"But they won't take me as I am. That is the trouble."

"Pooh! You see yourself that she allows no other suitors to accompany her. Don't you see she is alone or with the other girls the most of the time?"

"Her heart is full of vanity."

"Pshaw! She is trained to luxurious notions, that's all."

Mainwell's trunk was awaiting him and the stage, outside on the piazza, at the time this conversation was going on. On the trunk were his initals, G. M. Miss Ellsworth, passing that way, saw the initials—not by chance, for she had been very busy scrutinizing the trunks that lay together in a pile—and when she saw the initials she started and turned pale. She recovered herself, and withdrew with her companion a little way, and then stood still and watched. Presently Mr. Mainwell came out with Ned upon the piazza. He chanced to turn his eyes toward her, and their eyes met—met for the first time since she had left him while he was at work upon the lock. She did not turn away her eyes. She bowed. He lifted his hat. The ice was broken. He approached her to bid her good-bye.

What the conversation was that ensued between the two when they were left alone by means of Ned's ingenuity in spiriting away the rest of the company, is unknown, save the following:

"But I am a locksmith," said Mr. Mainwell.

"No matter."

"Are you willing to live as the wife of one who with his hands earns his daily bread?"

"I am willing to undergo anything to be with you. I have suffered enough. During these last few days I have learned what it is to despair of being united to the one I love."

"But your mother—your father."

"Unless I am willing to leave them for your sake, I am not worthy of you."

"But then the loss of wealth, of position, of the surroundings of refinement."

"Do not say anything more about it. I am willing to leave all for your sake. I am weary of being without you."

"Would you be willing to become my wife this day this hour? Your father and mother might otherwise put obstacles in our way."

"I am willing—this hour, this minute."

"They do not know of my position in life."

"They still think you are wealthy—as I did."

"Come, then, we will go our way with Ned, and become before the world what we are now in spirit, husband and wife; and then at once we will take the cars for the home I have for you—a home which, though lowly, will make you happy."

"Whither you go I will go."

They were married in a quiet way in the little watering place chapel, with the wicked Ned conniving at the mischief. The next train sped with them to the city.

"I will show you the shop where I work," said Mr. Mainwell, when the carriage they took at the depot in the city had drawn up before one of a long block of brown stone houses in a splendid part of the city.

"What do you mean?" she demanded, as she accompanied her husband up the broad steps to the door.

"I mean," he replied, that this is the home and this is the workshop."

And he led her in. Among other rooms to which he conducted his wife was one fitted up as a workshop, where, as he said, he was accustomed to indulge his love for mechanical work, after having, as he assured her, regularly served his time at learning a trade.

Mrs. Mainwell stood and looked at him intently.

"This is your house?" she asked.

"Yes, madam."

"And you are not poor, but rich?"

"You speak the truth, Mrs. Mainwell."

"And why did you play this jest upon me?"

"To see whether you really loved me for my own sake."

"Ah, pretty, indeed! And suppose you don't love me?"

',But I do."

"Humph!"

So there was a little family quarrel on the spot.

"Now invite your father and mother to come and see us," said Mr. Mainwell, after the clouds had cleared away, somewhat.

"I will," she replied, "I will. But first you must go with me to see them, and to pacify them, in view of what we have done."

"Very well."

In a few days they started out in a carriage on their errand. Mrs. Mainwell gave the directions to the driver, and her husband could not help expressing his wonder at the increasing squalor of the neighborhood through which they rode. The carriage drew up at length before a miserable-looking tenement house and stopped.

"Where the deuce are you taking me?" asked Mainwell, looking sharply at his wife."

"Come and see," was her reply, as she proceeded to step from the carriage.

"Here, wait," he exclaimed after his hesitancy; "let me get out first and help you out. What does this mean?"

"Follow me," was her reply.

She led him up stairs—up, up, through throngs, and dirt, and smells, to the fourth story. Here she opened a door without knocking, and the two entered. The woman was dressed neatly, and so were the children, but they were all dressed very poorly, in keeping with the place. The man was clad more carelessly, and even more poorly. On his head he kept his hat, which certainly was full half a dozen years old.

"My husband, Mr. Mainwell; my father and mother, brothers and sisters," said Mrs. Mainwell, introducing all parties.

Mr. Mainwell stood and stared without speaking.

"Ask their pardon, George," said Mrs. Mainwell, "for running away with me."

"Who are they?"

"Have I not told you; didn't I introduce you?"

"Who were they I saw at the watering place?"

"Some wealthy people who had seen me at the milliner's where I sewed for a livelihood—served at my trade, George—and who fancied my appearance, dressed me up, and took me there with them!"

"You jest with me," he said, with a ghastly smile.

"Do I? do I, indeed? These people seem to recognize me as a daughter and as a sister, jest, indeed! You will find that out."

"You are too cultured, too tasteful, too fine-featured!"

"All this a milliner may be, or a sewing girl. Look for yourself among the class. Is it not true? All that we girls need is dress."

Mainwell lifted his fist and dashed it through the air. He ground his teeth, and turning away left the room, slamming the door violently behind him.

His wife took off her hat and cloak and furs, and flung herself down at the table and buried her face in her handkerchief.

The door opened again, and Mainwell put in his head.

"You have deceived me," he said, "but come—you are my wife—I will try and bear it."

She sprang to her feet and confronted him.

"Your wife, am I?" she exclaimed. "Your wife, and doomed to live with one who does not love her, but was in love with her circumstance! No sir; you may go. I will not live a wife unloved for myself—you must take me thus or I will stay. Still I can work."

He closed the door and retired down the stairs to the street, clenching his hands and his teeth as he went.

"The horrid disgrace of it," he muttered. "The derision that will be my lot. And then to marry such a girl!"

But at the street door he tarried. He had a struggle with himself there all alone. Suddenly he turned and dashed impetuously up stairs, flung open the door of the room, seized his wife in his arms and clasped her to his heart.

"My wife," he whispered in her ear. "Such you are and ever shall be before God and the world."

"Now I begin to think that you do love me," she said, smiling in his face. "You do love me? You really think you do, George?"

He clasped her more tightly to him.

"Come then," she said, "though of such parents as these, poor as they are, I should not feel ashamed—yet they are not my parents, but have only played a part in which I have instructed them. Shake hands with them, George, they are worthy people."

And he did shake hands with them, and what is more, he helped them.

A merry party was gathered that evening at Mainwell's house, a party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Mainwell, and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth, the young lady acquaintances of the watering place, and Ned Whittaker. Ned never was in better spirits, nor let it be stated, were Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth, who forgave their daughter and her husband without hesitation.

"I say, George," said Ned, whispering in Mainwell's ear, "two can play at that game, can't they?"

Mainwell took Ned's jeering very soberly.

"Yes," said he, after a few moments of thoughtfulness, "and the experience has taught me a lesson. What fools the pride of wealth makes of us all. I thought she ought to have taken me regardless of my circumstances, for myself alone, and without hesitation even. And yet when she tested me, I myself was found wanting. Shall we ever learn to disregard a person's occupation, and to look only at the character and soul?"

Ned shrugged his shoulders dubiously.

"I think I have learned this lesson," Mainwell added.

Scotch Marriages.

The system of irregular marriages in Scotland is a very startling thing to those whose minds are not thoroughly accustomed to it. It is contracted in two different ways. Suppose any gentleman visited a house in Scotland where a young lady happened to be staying, and that he and the young lady took a walk together, and in the course of the walk he took a piece of paper out of his pocket on which they wrote down a mutual promise to marry; though the piece of paper might be simply put back again into his pocket, though nothing might be said to anybody about the writing, and though nobody else might be there at the time, if the persons afterward lived in a certain way together, that would be a valid marriage, although nobody might know of the fact of the marriage for years afterward. No mere promise will constitute a marriage unless it be in writing, and unless subsequente copula. A promise so given and so followed constitutes a good marriage, however long it may be kept secret. There is another even more extraordinary mode, in which no writing at all is necessary, and that is where the promise is made not de futuro, but de presenti—where the woman says, "I take you, John, for my husband," and where the man says, "I take you, Mary, for my wife," before witnesses. A promise of that kind being brought up at any future period, even although the people have never lived together, will hold good, and will be sufficient to overturn any perfectly honorable and reputable marriage that either of the parties may have subsequently entered into, and this actually occurred in the celebrated Dalrymple case.

December and May.

A London (C. W.) letter thus speaks of the recent marriage of Commodore Vanderbilt: The gallant bridegroom, whose Summers are seventy-six, was dressed in plain black, wearing in his shirt diamond studs of intense brilliancy and great value. He is a noble-looking gentleman, erect in figure, active in movement, intelligent in expression and almost courtly in bearing. As may be supposed from the fact of his years, his hair and whiskers are white; but he is so well preserved, even amid all the cares and responsibilities of his position, that he looks to be not more than 61 or 62 years old. His bride is comparatively young, being but 30 years of age. She is of medium height and symmetrical figure, wearing always a singularly happy expression of face, which is one of gentle beauty. She was dressed in simple traveling costume, and wore a blue veil on her bonnet, which was not lowered. The Commodore and his bride are second cousins.

A CO OPERATIVE STORE has been established at St. Clair, Schuylkill county, for over two years, and in the last semi-annual report shows that the plan has worked successfully. The sales for six months in the dry goods and grocery store amounted to $38,780, and in the boot and shoe store to $18,288, making a total of $57,068. The assets are as follows: Merchandise on hand, dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, $16,430; cash, $5,499; real estate, $8,484; personal estate, $950; debts due, $1,004; making a total of $32,367. The total liabilities are: Capital paid in, $28,114, and debts owing, $1,148, making a total of $29,262, and leaving an increase or net gain of $3,105. This net gain was divided as follows: The stockholders received 7 per cent. per annum interest on their shares, $912, and 6 per cent divident on their purchases, $1,855; the non-stockholders received 3 per cent. dividend on their purchases, $338. The sales to the stockholders amounted to $90,916, and to non-stockholders to $11,267.

A GYMNASIUM at Jersey City was nightly crowded by people who came to witness the feats of John Goulding, the champion English pedestrian, advertised to attempt the following acts in thirty minutes: Walk fair heel and toe half a mile; walk backward half a mile; roll a carriage wheel half a mile; run forward half a mile; pick up fifteen apples placed three feet apart on the floor, and bring each one in singly in his hand to a basket at the starting point; leap five hurdles; pick up with his mouth fifteen eggs, placed on the floor three feet apart, and bring each one in singly, in his mouth, to a bucket of water at the starting point, without either touching the eggs with his hands, or the floor with his knees, or breaking the eggs; leap five hurdles with an egg in his mouth; hop twenty-five yards on one leg; finishing his task by throwing over his head, from the back, twenty 53 pound weights, with only the use of one hand. Goulding completed the task in twenty-six minutes and thirty seconds.

CAST-IRON TUBES for water or gas are now made in England by turning off one end conically, and boring out the ends of the tubes to which it is to be fitted at the same angle, so that the end of one tube may be inserted into the other without the addition of the ordinary cement. The junction is effected very quickly, and the joint is perfectly tight. Pipes 36 inches in diameter have been perfectly joined in this way. Liverpool has about 90 miles of gas-pipe with this joint, and the leakage is said to be much less than in other cities.

HON. DAVID MCDONALD, United States District Judge of Indiana, died at Indianapolis on the 25th. He was born in Bourbon county, Ky., in 1803. He was appointed Judge, by Mr. Lincoln, to succeed Judge Caleb B. Smith. His death makes three District Judges that have died who were appointed by Mr. Lincoln—Albert S. White, Caleb B. Smith, and Judge McDonald.

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL
private diseases, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 27, 1869.

The metal market, compared with last week, presents no new characteristics worthy of special notice. As will be seen by reference the report of sales, there is a fair volume of business in the aggregate, for the season, and notwithstanding the demand is only moderate, prices, under the influence of a light supply, are well sustained, though unchanged. Advices from the east report that unless the strike by the coal miners is brought to a sudden termination, many of the eastern furnaces will be obliged to go out of blast for want of fuel.

There is rather more inquiry for manufactured iron and nails, and orders are flowing in pretty freely, in face of the recent advance, but manufacturers still report the trade in an unsatisfactory condition, and very small margins. The indications, however, are favorable for a good fall business, and it is possible that there will be less cutting than for some years past, at least it is hoped so.

RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede steadily with 28 inches in the channel by Monongahela marks. Weather clear, cool and pleasant—mercury 87 in shade.

—No arrivals to report, and Dew Drop was the only departure.

—The Norman broke her shaft Monday morning below Paducah.

—Capt. D. S. H. Gilmore, after a sojourn of several weeks in St. Louis, has returned home.

—The Salado is running between Gallipolis and Parkersburg, and the Forest City between the latter place and Wheeling.

—The Marine Railway & Dry Dock Company, at Cincinnati, has increased the wages of ship-carpenters 35 cents per day.

—As might be expected, business is entirely suspended at the landing, with but little prospect of any immediate improvement.

—The Nashville Union and American says the river friends of Capt. Wiley Sims have been insisting that he should become a candidate for Mayor.

—The Eureka Insurance Company of Cincinnati is the only company in that city that had a risk on the Evening Star, burned at St. Louis the other day.

—Mr. James A. Damron, a son of Mayor Damron, of Gallipolis, was a pilot on board the Cumberland when she exploded recently, and made a narrow escape from death.

—The Wild Duck is reported as having passed Baden, yesterday forenoon. She may be found in port this morning, though it is hardly probable, as it is said she draws three feet, light.

—Mr. Penn Wright, an experienced pilot, is engaged in laying down and replacing buoys in the Kanawha River, which will render the navigation of that stream much easier and safer during low water.

—The body of Samuel Copeland, mail agent of the steamer Cumberland, has been found near Metropolis, ninety miles below the scene of disaster. One arm was blown off, and the body only recognizable by its clothing.

—A St. Louis dispatch says: The stage of water in every direction from St. Louis holds up exceedingly well in spite of hot weather. The heat continues almost intolerable, but notwithstanding, the river business is active and good.

—We clip the following from the Cincinnati Gazette: The Emma No. 3, from New Orleans, and the Charleston from the hands of the U. S. Marshal at Evansville, may be expected here this morning. We shouldn't wonder if the latter boat stops here a while to pay her respects to Government officials.

MISCELLANEOUS.

SECURITY AND COMFORT for the travelling community.

J. B. HARRIS

Safety Fire Jacket, Car Heater and MODERATOR.

For Smoke and Hot Air Flues, dispensing with the use of stoves and fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached. Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket, which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended.

It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c. Wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired, I will send on application right to manufacture or use the above invention. Also Territorial rights to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges either by State or county.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 133⅛@133¾.

The reported rejection of the Chinese treaty, by the Government of the Flowery Kingdom, is discredited in official quarters at Washington.

THE forthcoming monthly statement of the public debt is expected to show a slight reduction, in the face of the very heavy disbursements during the month.

ANOTHER speculation to advance the price of gold is reported from New York. Parties are combined to lock up large amounts, withdrawing it from market. We trust that Secretary BOUTWELL will prick the corner at the right moment.

A MELANCHOLY PROOF of the demoralizing influence of Radical politics is reported from Indianapolis, where an Irish Democrat was arrested the other day for a personal outrage upon a negro girl aged five years. The misguided criminal is understood to have supposed that the XVth Article was already ratified.

THE Lehigh Valley Railway Company has finally completed its new line from Easton up to the left bank of the Lehigh, by Tunkhannock across to Waverly on the Erie road. A new and short line is thus opened from Philadelphia to the West, and for the supply of anthracite coal to Western New York and the whole Lake country.

THE telegraph reports more transfers of Revenue Supervisors. Look out for fresh seizures made by the transferred officials. The inability of a Supervisor to see anything wrong in his own district is only matched by his acute and fearless promptitude as soon as he changes his base. For the credit of the old officers, the Commissioner should repress a little of the vigor of the successors.

THE North German Bund has granted a concession for the laying of another telegraphic cable to America, connecting some suitable point on the German coast of the North Sea, with the American coast between New York and Boston. The parties named are Germans and English, the latter having always a hand in these enterprises. The line must be put down within thirty months, and wise regulations are to be prescribed, for its management, by governmental authority. There is little doubt that this cable will be actually laid.

THE New York Tribune "supposes that Iowa, Minnesota and Alabama have ratified the XVth Article." The Iowa and Minnesota legislatures have not been in session since the Article was submitted, and Alabama has never yet reported any action, officially or unofficially, thereon. The Tribune's supposition is therefore as violent as its continued attacks, upon the policy which is to control the legal reconstruction of Virginia, are unfair and mischievous. If the Article shall be finally saved, it will not be through such engineering as that journal advises. Nor will the Amendment "be lost in consequence" of a disregard of its advice to surrender the three unreconstructed States, after the Tennesse precedent, to the reassured friends of the lost cause.

THE marked respect, the distinguished consideration awarded Gen. JOHN W. GEARY, the heroic soldier, the statesman of undoubted ability, paid by all the heroes of the battle of Gettysburg, at the recent reunion, was enough to assure us that the man has not been over-estimated in this Commonwealth by the people. When we saw battle scarred heroes, men who played grand parts in that greatest of all battles of the rebellion, bowing their heads before his record, we felt that he was worthy confidence, and that the Republican party had honored itself in making such selection to lead us to victory in the struggle of the State between money and patriotism. GEARY'S name will live forever in the history of the country. Should we now prove ungrateful to his claims upon us a citizen, a soldier, a statesman, a philanthropist and a successful administrative officer?

ON TUESDAY next, the citizens of this city will be called upon to decide the very important question of "a public park or no public park." and it is to be hoped that there will be a full vote out on the occasion. The erroneous impression prevails that the commission to have charge of the project, provided the people may vote it their pleasure to have a park at public expense, has been already appointed and the entire matter fixed up in advance of popular expression. The old park commission expired with the act of Assembly providing for a reference of the matter to the people, and a new one will have to be appointed after the election, if the project carries, and the entire work gone over from the start. We make this statement, believing that several public spirited gentlemen have been grossly wronged in personal charges made in the discussion of the Park question.

WE COMMEND the annexed resolution, adopted by the Democratic State Convention of Massachusetts, to their friends in this Commonwealth, who have thus far declined to "acquiesce in settled results." When our own Democracy shall consent to "postpone fruitless opposition to accomplished facts" indefinitely, they will have better reason than now to hope for some "effective action upon the pressing problems of to-day." Hear the wiser partizans of Massachusetts:

Resolved, That the Democratic party of Massachusetts have no new theories to advance upon national subjects. Recent events, as well as the experience of our earlier history, serve to convince us that the farther the nation wanders from the old and cherished principles of Democracy the more urgent grows the need of a return to them; but we nevertheless deem it a political duty to acquiesce in settled results, and postpone fruitless opposition to the accomplished facts of yesterday, in order to secure effective action upon the pressing problems of to-day.

SINCE the opposition press have been sorely exercised over the alleged interference, by the President, with the course of the civil authority in New York in the case of the Texan assassin lately in the custody of the Marshal of that district, it will be a grateful relief to them to know that no such interference was actually had. The prisoner was in the Federal custody and was directed to be held there, while the Marshal himself was ordered to make use of all legal means to prevent his own arrest. Here is the text of the President's much misrepresented letter:

NEW YORK, August 12, 1869.

General F. C. Barlow, United States Marshal, Southern District New York:

GENERAL: Learning from the District Attorney of the Southern District of New York, that Judge J. H. McCunn, New York Superior Court, has ordered the discharge of a United States prisoner, held by you, for the United States, I authorize and direct that you hold said prisoner against all orders of said Judge McCunn, and that the prisoner only be released on the order of a Judge or other authority having power to direct a United States Marshal.

You are authorized to use all legal means to retain said prisoner, and to prevent your own arrest by such authority of State Courts.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) U. S. GRANT.

TIME was when, if the Sultan of Turkey made up his mind to dispense with the services of a ruler of Egypt, a neat express package containing a silken cord was considered equivalent to a death warrant, and the unfortunate Pacha smoked his last chibouque, paid his last visit to his seraglio, and died, without remonstrance, as became a faithful and dutiful servant of the "Vicegerent of the Prophet." But even the imperturbable Mussleman cannot withstand the civilizing influences of the nineteenth century. Very recently, the Sultan became offended at the report of some of the Viceroy's actions, but a remonstrance was sent, instead of a bow string, and Ismail Pacha, instead of sending back his severed head, dispatched assurances of his loyalty. It is well in these days of Suez canals and Nile expeditions, to have such actual proof as is furnished by this incident, that there has been a radical improvement in the Ottoman manners, as otherwise we might discover some day that the Frankish vessels in the canal had been burned, the Frankish members of the expedition slaughtered, and various other excentricities committed by order of some petty and irresponsible sovereign, whose insignificant head, placed bodyless at the Sultan's feet, would not by any means prove a satisfactory return for what he had destroyed. To us the task of civilizing—according to European standards—the Mahommedan races, has always appeared to be that one of the great works undertaken by the Christian world which most nearly approached the impossible. For centuries these races have resisted all outside efforts at change as effectually as have the Chinese, but at length they are yielding, and before the century closes most of the most thoroughly objectionable traits of the various oriental systems will doubtless have become things of the past.

JONATHAN ON THE THAMES.

We won't crow as much as we could have done if the Harvard crew had won the race, but we almost feel inclined to imitate our Democratic brethren who jubilantly put up a rooster if a defeat has not turned out to be as bad as they had expected. Yesterday, we enumerated the various concessions which the Americans were obliged to make in order to attain their object of having a race at all. Remembering these, and recalling the fact that Englishmen were offering large odds in favor of the Oxford crew, we think we need feel little chagrin at a result which was so nearly a victory. Indeed, when we reflect on the circumstances of the case, and since, according to a cablegram, the Harvards, in a race of nearly five miles, with a crew acknowledged to be the best ever seen in England, were beaten by only six seconds, we think we may, while lamenting the absence of victory, feel very proud, indeed, of what has been done.

We have no doubts as to the fairness of the race, and see no reason to believe that the rumors, said to have been rife on Wall street yesterday, were anything but the usual tricks of the speculators on that thoroughfare, who would have been acting contrary to all precedent if they had allowed so brilliant an opportunity for falsifying dispatches, and for speculations on the popular prejudices, to pass by without taking advantage of it. As to the hint of poison having been administered to one of the American crew, we do not believe it, nor shall we until we have more substantial grounds to rest such a belief upon.

We suppose that the Americans will now have to pass through one of the severest social ordeals which falls to the lot of man, and that is a series of dinners and other entertainments, an outburst of hospitality in fact from the friends of their conquerors. That they will bear up well under this infliction, we do not hesitate to predict. It it all could be made to end in infusing into the English mind the idea that it would now be eminently proper for them to offer to send a crew over to race a Harvard crew in American waters without a coxswain, next year, we think the Yankee boys would feel almost repaid for their glorious defeat.

A SHARP REPROOF FOR PARTISAN FOLLY.

General ROSECRANS had too sincere a regard for his sacred obligations to his creditors and his family, to accept any nomination for office, as the standard-bearer of the party of repudiation. His letter of declination has just been given to the public. The rumor in Ohio runs that this document had been for some days in the hands of the Democratic Committee, to which it was officially addressed, but that these gentlemen were so awkwardly gravelled by its most unwelcome purport as to induce their delay of publication until they found a longer concealment to be impracticable. It may be a slander to accuse them of any intention to suppress the letter altogether, but—looking at the mysterious delay of which we have spoken, and at the letter itself as it now stands in type, arraigning and condemning the Democracy for its disregard of all the teachings of political experience and for its inexcusable departure from the doctrines maintained by its earlier leaders—we can no longer wonder at the quandary of these rebuked partisans, with such an elephant on their hands.

We reprint in another column, the most brilliant gems from this letter; the full text would occupy more than two columns of the Gazette, and, generous as we always are, we feel that this would be devoting too much space for the admonitory instruction of a party which will never appreciate our good advice, or thank us for any efforts to recall the Democracy from the crooked ways which are leading them down to political ruin. The extracts which we have made, faithfully reveal the spirit of the entire letter.

The Ohio Democracy may not welcome this exposition of wise political doctrines, but they ought, above all things, to regret their failure to secure its author for their candidate. Had the platform which, in the same hour with the nomination now declined, was adopted by their Convention, been framed in any faithful correspondence with opinions which were then as well known to leading politicians of both parties in Ohio as they are now to the popular masses by this publication; had the Democratic engineers paid to General ROSECRANS the moderate compliment of supposing him to be an honest man, and not, as one of themselves, a mere trickster who would cheerfully submit to any dogmas, no matter how offensive to his judgment, or incompatible with the record of a long and honorable career; had they not attempted, as usual, a double game, hewing their platform after the traditional lines of a party which never yet learned, in the logic of events, the wisdom of surrendering absurd prejudices and of acquiescing in accomplished facts, but at the same time expecting to secure its acceptance through the personal popularity of the nominee, and through a general impression that his official conduct would in some way counteract and restrain the mischievous avowals of the Convention; had, in short, the Democracy been honest for once, themselves, and regarded their candidate as equally so, they would have squared their own utterances by his well-known opinions, and it is likely that the nomination would not only have been accepted, but it might have led to victory in October.

Undoubtedly, the platform and the nomination were alike made known to Gen. ROSECRANS at the same time. It is not to be supposed that, when he telegraphed back his declination, he was in any respect ignorant of the exact character of the Democratic resolutions. He thus perceived the attempted fraud and spurned it, with brief, curt promptitude in his telegram, bnt with dignity and crushing force in the extended letter. The party may now realize their mistake—what they have lost, and how they have lost it. The personal popularity of a distinguished Union soldier, supported by such opinions as he has now avowed, and supplemented by a platform which should have faithfully conformed to these ideas, would have given to the Ohio Democracy that which they have not now—a very tolerable prospect for success at the polls.

We need not direct attention to the extracts which we have made from his letter. No comments are required. The document speaks for itself. We have only to remind our readers that it is written by a Democratic nominee, who declines to be their candidate, to the official representatives of a great party in Ohio. Considering this, the fitness of his rebuke will be better understood.

THE DEMOCRATIC CHICKAMAUGA IN OHIO.

The movement of the opposition in Ohio, to capture Gen. Rosecrans as their candidate for Governor, has resulted unfortunately for that excellent party. Declining the doubtful honor, his letter is a long-winded lecture upon Democratic back-slidings, with some sensible admonitions upon the future course required to save the party from complete ruin. We quote a few passages, which serve to show very clearly what good reasons the General had, for declining a nomination by that school of politicians. He says:

The country requires, and the Democratic party ought to be a party of principle, a party of life, of action and of progress. "Fossils" and fault-finders do not properly belong to the party, and, if found in it, ought to go on the retired list.

Leaving to its opponents of all shades and grades all narrow and sectional grounds, all monopolies and favoritism based on class, creed, race, color, or national origin, the Democratic party of the United States ought to hold high the banner of universal freedom, impartial justice and equality before the law of all who live beneath the flag of our country. * *

Based on these laws of our life and growth, and repudiating the doctrine that "might makes right," American democracy holds that liberty consists in the obedience of all to just laws. That these laws should be the fewest and simplest possible, leaving the utmost individual freedom of thought and action consistent with equal rights and impartial justice, and where individual action must be regulated by law, seeking always "the greatest good to the greatest number."

This is the democracy I believe in, and to which I am proud to belong.

* * * * * *

No local declaration inviting a popular prejudgment of any legal question about the terms of payment of the National bonds should impair the priceless value of the public credit at a time when it is important to create the speediest means of ridding the country of these enormous oppressions, but every Democratic platform should tend to raise higher and higher the public credit, and to satisfy the people of Europe that the Democratic is the last party in the United States that proposes to whine or act reluctantly about paying the public debt, even though present holders should have bought it belowits fair value.

2. An irredeemable paper currency, or one perpetually flustuating in value, is a gigantic fraud on the people—a concentration of the evils of false weights, false measures, and worse, injurious to all classes, but especially to those who live by labor.

The Democracy should assert, with renewed vigor and determination, its old declaration in favor of a specie basis and a paper currency, convertible at par into coin at the will of the holder, and should take prompt and efficacious measures to raise our bonds to where the security they offer and the interest they bear ought to place them, so as to draw greenbacks after them to par, with the least possible delay. This will relieve all classes, especially the laboring, and, augmenting the valuation of our circulation 25 per cent., give a healthy and vigorous impulse to every department of business and industry. * * * *

Whosoever obtains votes under false pretenses is a baser knave than he who obtains goods under false pretenses, and, on account of the greater difficulty of detecting and measuring the evil done, deserves severer punishment and reprobation. * * * * * *

7. The Democratic doctrine of suffrage requires distinct reaffirmation.

Democracy has always held that suffrage is not a natural right of every human being, nor of a particular sex or race, but a particular privilege, and who should exercise it a question to be decided by what will produce "the greatest good to the greatest number," and therefore as far as possible, to be determined locally, where lies the great body of the rights of the people.

But in these local discussions the Democratic idea favors a broad rather than a narrow basis of suffrage. It is not unmindful or regardless of the rights of woman, of property, and inferior races; but seeing other effective and advantageous ways in which these can have their influence on all legislation affecting their interests, at present it prefers giving the right of voting to manhood and qualifications, which will tend to create bonds of political brotherhood between the rich and poor, based on mutual interests, and to avert conflicts between capital and labor.

The caucus system, invented by the Democracy as a practical way of finding out who is a proper person to be voted for where a constituency is too large to know each other personally, and in spite of its glaring imperfections and corruptions now adopted by all parties, should be improved by the Democracy and carefully regulated by wise provisions of law.

These views I believe to be explicitly or implicitly held by three-fourths of our voting population, and only require distinct Democratic enunciation to elicit a substantial response from the people, who well know that neither a public policy based on passions, nor Radicalism, per se, can long rule without ruining the country, and would be glad to combine for the public good on grounds that would restore our State and National Administrations to the spirit and practice of Democratic Republican simplicity.

Should there be Democrats whose mental organization or temper does not permit them to recognize existing facts, or conform their action to great popular changes, let them, for the public good, abdicate the leadership, and leave the energies of the people free to act in the line of life and progress.

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

The lamentable truth is conceded by ministers and communicants of all evangelical denominations, that thousands of new-comers to this city, especially from foreign lands, are lost entirely to the Churches from various causes. Prominent among the causes, is the neglect of strangers to make themselves known to the proper church authorities of their denominational profession, and neglecting to bring certificates of dismission, and the lack of using proper means by the churches, in seeking out strangers and obtaining information upon this subject. The question, however, is beginning to be discussed, how to avoid this difficulty, and it seems to be generally conceded that the best course is for the church authorities on giving a certificate of dismission to send a notice of the fact to some minister residing in the place where the party intends to reside, of the same faith, so that the stranger may be waited upon and solicited to hand in his certificate of dismission. The plan might be adopted in this country and also be observed in Europe. There is no doubt but that multitudes might be saved to the Church, if some systematic plan was observed. This serves to introduce a movement on foot by Christ Episcopal Church, Allegheny City, to reach persons of foreign birth, who have been raised and educated in the Church of England, or whose sympathies and preferences at home were favorable to the Established Church. To facilitate this object a special service is to be held in Christ Church, East Common, Allegheny, Sunday (to-morrow) evening, at 7½ o'clock, to which all residents of both cities and vicinity of foreign birth, who were members of the Church of England, or were accustomed to attend its services in the Old Country, are particularly and cordially invited to attend. The Rev. B. F. Brooke, the talented Rector of that Church, will be assisted on the occasion by Bishop Kerfoot and several Presbyters of the Diocese. It is proposed, in connection with this service, to consider the propriety of adopting suitable means to provide special services for this class of Churchmen, who have not been favored in this respect, by reason of circumstances indicated. The meeting promises to be largely attended and interesting.

Rev. Robert Patterson, of Chicago, formerly of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, thinks that the superstition that Rouse's version of the Psalms of David should be the exclusive psalmody of the Anglo-Saxon race, is of recent and American origin. It was unknown one hundred years ago in Britain. When he was a child, in 1825, his nurse, a faithful Covenanter, took him to a union Sunday School at Letterkenny, and he sung, "Salvation, O the joyful sound." This school was supported in part by elders and others of the Covenanting Church in Ireland.

Hon. Henry S. Raymond, lately deceased, so widely and popularly known as the editor of the New York Times, in early life was a professor of religion, and intended as soon as he left college to enter the ministry.

The Living Church argues that clergymen should have an annual vacation, and both pastors and people would gain by the respite.

Elder Knapp, the noted Baptist preacher, is credited with the following prayer in behalf of a Universalist preacher named Brittain, at Bridgeport: "Lord, shake the Universalist preacher over hell! Riddle him over the hot embers! Smite him! Send an awful tremor over him! Fill his soul with horror, that he may frighten his followers back from damnation!" We havn't learned whether this prayer has been answered.

It is estimated that of the four hundred students just graduated by twenty colleges under the charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church, between one-tenth and one-fifth design to enter the ministry. At least, says the Independent, one hundred Methodists are graduating at other colleges, of whom a like proportion will enter the ministry.

The Allegheny Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church, will met at Harmersville, Tuesday, September 14th, and will be opened with a sermon by Rev. A. H. Calvert.

The Catholic Church of the Immaculate Conception, in Boston, under the care of Rev. John Bofet, six years ago, was one hundred and fifty-three thousand dollars in debt. Of this one hundred and eighteen thousand dollars have been paid, or his people, (not rich as a whole) have raised eighteen thonsand dollars a year, besides meeting current expenses. This priest has just been elected first Provincial of the new Jesuit Province of New York. The success of this Church in raising money is by systematic efforts. Congregations assume a responsibility, and agree to raise a certain sum in a given time, and the clergy indicate the plan by which the money can be raised, and then the people meet the obligation voluntarily.

Rev. George Trask, the great Anti-tobacco apostle, writes to the Independent, that he had been considered dead, but the doctors now tell him he has a new lease of life, and that he is to have the opportunity to fight popular vices ten years longer; but he says God knoweth. Tobacco users beware—Trask is not dead.

The Roman Catholics of Illinois are considerably exercised in regard to the administration of ecclesiastical affairs in two of the dioceses, Alton and Chicago, both without bishops, through the death of one and the insanity of the other. The difficulty seems to be mainly because the wishes of the Irish majority have not been gratified with a selection of pastors. The Alton administrator argues the point at length, and then urges them to become American in feeling, but in religion Roman Catholics.

We note with pleasure that the American Board of Presbyterians will be held in this city, Monday, October 5th. Rev. F. A. Noble is designated as chairman of the committee of arrangements, whom persons should address desiring entertainment.

The Independent represents that Mathias W. Baldwin, of Philadelphia, a member of the New School Presbyterian Church, built five churches at his own expense. The aggregate of money spent in this way is estimated at one hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

The Baptists of Boston and New England have recently raised ten thousand dollars for the American Baptist Publication Society to establish a depository of the Society in Boston.

A dispatch from Columbus says it is rumored that Bishop McIlwaine is about getting up a court to try Rev. Colin Tate, of St. Paul's Church in that city, for introducing a surpliced choir into his church.

Returns on Lay Delegation in the Methodist Episcopal Church still come in slowly. The maximum vote has heretofore been fixed at two hundred and fifty thousand, but it looks probable that it may reach three hundred thousand. It still stands more than two to one in favor of lay delegation.

PAINLESS DIGESTION.

"No man," says Sir Astley Cooper, "ought to know by his sensations that he has a stomach." In other words, when digestion is perfect there is neither pain nor uneasiness in the region where it takes place. Nausea, want of appetite, flatulency, oppression after eating, shooting pains in the epigastrum, a flushing in the face at meal times, and a furred tongue in the morning, are among the direct symptoms of indigestion. Constipation, biliousness, headache, nervous irritability, physical weakness and low spirits, are its almost invariable accompaniments. All these indications of DYSPEPSIA, whether immediate or secondary, are usually aggravated by hot weather.

The close of summer is therefore the season when the victim of dyspepsia most urgently needs a tonic and regulating medicine. Of course, every invalid has many advisers. One friend recommends one drug, another another; but in a multitude of counselors there is not always safety. The STANDARD REMEDY OF THE PRESENT AGE FOR INDIGESTION, in all its stages, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Time, that proves all things, has established its reputation on an impregnable foundation,—the spontaneous testimony of millions of intelligent witnesses. No acrid oil or rapid distilles its stimulating principle: its tonic constituents are the finest that botanical research has yet discovered; it combines the properties of a gentle evacuant, a blood depurent and an anti-bilious medicine, with invigorating qualities of the highest order, and is admitted both by the public and the profession to be the surest protection against all diseases that are produced or propagated by pestiferous air or unwholesome water, that has ever been used either in the United States or Tropical America.

In cases of constipation, resulting from a want of muscular tone in the intestines, the effect of the BITTERS is perfectly marvellous; and without the dangerous sequences of mercury, it restores the disordered liver to a normal condition.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, August 27, 1869.

Gold, which declined yesterday from 134 down to 132⅞, last evening opened at 132½, advanced suddenly on rumors of the death of Napoleon and a riot in Paris, fluctuated between 133½@134¼, and closed at 4 P. M. at 133⅞. A strong bull party was formed a few days ago, for the purpose of carrying gold higher, but failing in their first attempt, they turned bears themselves, thereby increasing the short interest still more and making it easy for them to put their own figures on the gold which they control. The principal argument of the bear party, was the necessity for the Government to sell gold, in order to continue the purchase of gold, and the prospect of a tight money market.

Government bonds declining with gold but advanced immediately when gold advanced, especially was this the case with the old issues of 1867 and 1862. Few bonds are now offering, and should the Government continue to buy largely for September a further rise will be inevitable.

Stocks are stronger with gold, but some of the Western shares are dull at the advance. Express shares are weak. Money easy at about 9 to 10 per cent.

Quotations as received by Ph. R Mertz: Gold, 133⅞; Silver, 128; Eighty-one's, 123½; Five Twenties, 1862, 123¾; do 1864, 122¼; do 1865, —; do 1865, Consols, 120⅜; do 1867, 121; do 1868, 120⅝; Ten Forties, 115¼; New York Central, 202½; Erie, ——; Reading, 96; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago Railroad, 188½; Ohio & Misisippi, 132¾; Michigan Southern, 106⅜; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 107½; Chicago & Rock Island, 114¼; Chicago & North Western, 83½; Chicago & North Western Preferred, 95⅝; Adams Express Company, 56; Merchants Union Express, 10; Pacific Mail, 80¼; Western Union Telegraph Company, 37; American Express Company 36.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 27, 1869.

Money more active at 6@7 per cent on call for loans. Sterling dull at 9¾@9⅝ per cent. Gold excited; opened at 132⅝; advanced to 134¼ on reports of the death of Napoleon; fell to 133¾, advanced to 134¾ and closed at 133⅝@1,33¾. Loans were made at 6 per cent. to flat. The clearances were $94,000,000.

Governments are very dull but firm. Coupons of '81, 123¼@123⅝; do. '62, 123¼@123½; do. '64, 122⅛@122¼; do. '65, 122⅛@122¼; do. new. 120¾@120⅞; do. '67, 121@121¼; do. '68, 120¾@120⅞; 10-40's, 115@115¼; Pacifics, 110¼@110½.

State bonds dull; Missouris, 87; old Tennessees, 61½; new do., 53¼. Stocks declined in the forenoon, but were strong and higher in the afternoon, under the belief that the bank statement to-morrow will be favorable, closing steady. The market, however, was quiet, all day, the international boat race attracting most of the attention of brokers.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 27, 1869.

The total amount of grain in store in Chicago on Monday was 1,196,510 bushels, against 860,143 bushels the corresponding period last week; 953,454 bushels two weeks ago; and 2,105,212 bushels one year ago. The receipts there exceeded the shipments of wheat 130,113 bushels; corn, 127,307 bushels; oats, 60,815 bushels; and rye, 20,482 bushels; while the shipments exceeded the receipts of barley 2,650 bushels. Total increase of the amount of store during the week, 336,067 bushels.

The Chicago Republican of Thursday says: There were a large number of settlements made, and the line of "shorts" out for this month has been very largely reduced since Saturday, though there were indications of a "corner" two days ago, it is quite probable the project has been abandoned, the "shorts" spoiling the game by settling up their contracts. They may succeed in forcing prices up on the last day of the month, but it is doubtful if this combination make any further attempt to force the market, as they are large losers now, circumstances having been against them, and they have had to pay high prices for wheat that was purchased at a comparatively low figure. The receipts continue liberal, while Eastern and Liverpool advices would indicate that the markets there have a downward look.

Oats dull, but without quotable change, 45 bid for car load lots, and 47 asked—small sales in store at 50@52. PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, August 27, 1869.

The oil market was exceedingly quiet to-day, but a single sale reported, while compared with yesterday prices have undergone no quotable change. There is not that unanimity of feeling in regard to suspending business, on the part of refiners, until such time as a margin would be offered, as it was supposed there would be when the matter was first broached. All concede that it would be a move in the right direction, and that it would result in just what is desired, provided it could be made general—not only here, but at Cleveland and other oil refining points, but it is thought by some that this cannot be attained. It is argued that as soon as one point would suspend, others would take advantage of it, and do all the business. Be this as it may, however, it is asserted that a large number of the most prominent concerns, both here and at Cleveland, will close up at the end of this month, and will continue closed until such time as business gets into shape to offer some inducement for a resumption. As repeatedly noted, recently, the refining business has been very unsatisfactory thus far this year, and manufacturers are anxiously looking about for some means of relief.

CRUDE.

Sales 5,000 bbls seller August, at 14¾. Market quiet and dull, but unchanged. Buyer all year, nominal at 15¼@15½; seller all year, 14¼@14½; September to December, that is for "lines," 14⅞—the last sale reported being at that figure; offers from Oil City to sell at $5,80, seller 30 days.

REFINED.

Not a single sale reported—market quiet and dull, but unchanged. August quoted at 31¾; September to December, 32⅜; September, alone, 32¼@32½; buyer all year 33¼. It looks now as if the sales would continue light until the market assumes a more tangible shape.

The Irish Ribbonmen's Oath.

A correspondent of the Dublin Express gives the following as a correct copy of a form of Ribbon oath recently found by the police in making a sudden irruption into a public house in an Irish county, notorious for agrarian outrages:

"I [A. B.] hereby agree to become a true and loyal member of this society, and I solemnly swear before Almighty God to be true and loyal to the brotherhood, and to each member of the same; and I will be obedient to my committee and superior officers, and agree to all their articles, laws, rules and regulations that have been since the commencement, and all amendments added thereto, and to perform all duties imposed on me with loyalty, faith and fidelity; and I swear that neither hopes nor fears, rewards nor punishments, shall induce me to give evidence against any brother or brothers for any act or expression of theirs done or made collectively or individually. And in pursuance of this obligation I swear to aid, as best I can, with purse and person, any brother or brothers who may be in distress; and I further swear to owe no allegiance to any Protestant or heretic sovereign, ruler, prince or potentate, and that I will not regard any oath delivered to me by them or their subjects, be they judge, magistrate or else, as binding. And I swear to aid, as best I can, any brother or brothers who may be on trial for any act or expression of theirs, before magistrate, judge, jury or else, and to be ready at all times to aid by every means in my power to assist in procuring his or their liberation, and, if myself a witness, to disregard any oath delivered to me on such occasions by judge, jury, magistrate, counsel, clerk, lawyer, official or else, and that I will not regard such oath as binding. And in revenge for the sufferings of our forefathers, and protection of our rights, I further solemnly swear to aid, as best I can, in exterminating and extirpating all Protestants and heretics out of Ireland or elsewhere; to hunt, pursue, shoot and destroy all Protestant or heretic landlords, proprietors or employers, and also to hunt, shoot, pursue and destroy all landlords or proprietors belonging to the Church of Rome, should he or they evict his or their tenants from any house, land, home, or holding of theirs. And I further solemnly swear to aid, as best I can, in burning down, sacking and destroying all Protestant or heretic churches or places of worship, and all houses used as such by members of different heretical denominations in this country, and to level the same to the ground.

"I also solemnly swear to have no intercourse, communion or trade, neither to buy nor sell, barter or exchange, give or take, or have any dealings whatever with said Protestants or heretics, unless on such occasions as cannot be avoided.

"I also swear to defend the farmer, the poor man, the widow, and the orphans of any brother or former brother against the oppression of the landlords and the tyranny of Saxon laws; and I further solemnly swear to do all in my power to procure the independence of Ireland, and aid as best I can in allowing none but Irishmen to possess Irish land, and Ireland for the Irish.

"I also solemnly swear to shoot, destroy, hunt and pursue to death any former brother who may turn informer or traitor, or who may refuse to perform any duty ordered by his committees or superior officers, or any duty which may fall by lot or otherwise to execute. And I aggree that my person shall be at all times at their service, to go wherever required or do whatever sent, and also to aid by every means in my power any brother or brothers of this society executing the orders of other committees or officers belonging thereto, though not in my district, and to aid as best I can him or them in the performance of their duty.

"And I most solemnly swear to keep all secrets, passwords, signs, orders or otherwise belonging to this society, and that I shall never divulge the same by word of mouth or otherwise, and I swear neither to mark, write, nor indite with pen, pencil, stone, chalk, or any other mineral or substance above or under wood, above or under water, above or under land, above or under air, on the sea or elsewhere, or to use therewith any substance whatever above or under &c., be it herb, shrub, tree wood, liquor mineral or else, above or below this earth, above or under, &c., or to use therewith any liquid, marking fluid, ink, or any marking substance whatever, above or under, &c., in the sea or elsewhere, to betray or inform of any signs, secrets, passwords, orders, doings, actions, or expressions that have been, that are being, or that will be belonging to this brotherhood."

The Conduct of the Southern Negroes Since their Emancipation.

I think it due to the reader and to the general public to give them some curious information as to the social state of Virginia for some months past. During this time, in most of our counties, we have had no law offices, and in consequence no law or government; yet our people, black and white, even on the eve of most exciting elections, were as pacific, as orderly and as free from crime as any people in the world. Indeed, many ingenious persons begin to maintain that government is a needless thing, and that public opinion and correct views of self-interest would enable us to dispense with the cumbersome and costly machinery. I hold no such opinions, but cite these facts to prove that there is not the slightest foundation for the popular rumor and opinion that there is cause to apprehend a war of races at the South. Our prospects are very hopeful, and we rejoice to find that many sensible persons at the North are becoming aware of it, and are rapidly settling in our midst.

The negroes, when first emancipated, were turbulent and disorderly, and committed many crimes, but at no time since their liberation have they been half so lawless, so turbulent, so beggarly or so criminal as were the emancipated serfs of England for several centuries, according to the unanimous testimony of historians, and the still better testimony of many acts of Parliament enacted to punish their mendacity, vagrancy and crime.

I should fail in doing justice to the whites of Virginia, and I believe of the whole South, were I not to add that since the war, although exposed to trying provocations and temptations, they have been peaceable, quiet and orderly, and crimes and misdemeanors have been of extremely rare occurrence among them.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Heating Railroad Cars.

In devising methods of heating railroad cars in winter in such a way as to avoid the terrible scenes which so frequently occur when there is a collision or other accident, we must not forget that the same problem has presented itself to experienced railroad engineers abroad, and that on many of the railroads in Europe a solution of the problem has been in a great measure attained. The methods made use of there consist usually in adapting a steam heating apparatus to this purpose, so as to carry steam from the locomotive boiler, or from a special boiler just behind that through all the cars from one end of the train to the other. Under each car runs an iron tube, properly enveloped in some non-conducting substance, connected between the cars by rubber or gutta-percha coupling, and with a stop-cock in it at the lowest point of the curve for allowing the condensed steam to escape from time to time. From the main tube smaller tubes pass into the cars, which are connected with cylinders under the seats, or with other tubes running along the sides of the car. In some instances special stops are applied, by which the steam can be cut off from one seat of a car without interfering with the rest; but generally, the arrangements are such that the steam can be shut off from one half of the tubing, while the rest is free to act. How far this process has been introduced into the United States at present, we are not able to state; but there seems to be no reason why its application may not be as satisfactory generally here as in Europe. At any rate, we would commend the subject to our engineers and mechanics in the hope that they may devise something that will answer the purpose in question.

The English Telegraph Lines.

The plan of the British Government for buying up the telegraph lines of the United Kingdom, now before Parlament, seems to meet with public favor. The companies are to be allowed twenty years' purchase of the net profits of their business up to the 30th of June last year. The sum which they originally claimed was £7,036,037. From this sum the Government proposes to deduct £1,320,990, and give to the companies the sum of £5,715,047 for their property in the undertakings. In addition to this payment there are other payments which it is necessary to make to the railway companies and to other parties, the general result of which is that the whole payment to be made by the Government amounts to the sum of £6,750,000. The gross yearly income of the lines is estimated at £673,838, and the expenditure at £359,448, which leaves a net profit of £314,354. Deducting four per cent. interest for the sum necessary for the purchase, there will remain a profit of at least £44,000 a year, and if the money be obtained at 3½ per cent., £77,000. As the income is increasing at the rate of 18 to 32 per cent. per annum, the profits to the Government will become still larger than this. It is believed that the rates may be considerably reduced and a profit still derived by the Government, as has been the case with the Postoffice Department under the cheap postage rates. This seems to be a reasonable expectation, and, if realized, the bringing of the lines into one complete system under Government control will prove a great public benefit.

The Corn Crop.

Reports from local correspondents received at the Department of Agriculture since August 1, indicate a general decline of the corn crop as compared with the yield of 1868. New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, in the East; West Virginia, Kansas and Nebraska in the West; and Arkansas, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida and Texas, in the South, are the only States which report the condition of the crop equal to, or superior to that of last year, at the corresponding date. Illinois and Indiana, which together produced one-fourth of the corn crop of 1868, report the present condition of the crop at 25 to 30 per cent. below that of last year, with an average acreage somewhat decreased, owing to the late and unfavorable Spring.

Ohio and Iowa report 20 per cent. below last year in present promise; Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin 20 to 30 per cent.; Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Missouri 10 per cent.; New England 10 to 15 per cent., and New York 20 to 25 per cent. below. Of the few States reporting the crop as in better relative condition, Texas rates 20 per cent. higher than last year, with increased acreage, and Arkansas and Kansas about ten per cent. higher, with largely increased acreage in the latter State. The probabilities are that the crop will fall considerably below that of last year, and with continuing drouth and early frost may fall very far short. Timely rains and a late Fall may yet do much for it, however.

The "Positive Motion Loom"

On exhibition at the fair of the American Institute, at New York, is thus described by the Tribune: The shuttle is carried through the warp instead of being knocked or driven through, its impulse being inseparable from that which moves the reed, so that, if the shuttle should ever be stopped in its course, the reed is also arrested and held fast till the shuttle has moved on and cleared the web. Friction, pulling, breaking yarn, &c., are thus precluded; the power required is greatly reduced; while a web of any conceivable width may be woven with ease. We yesterday saw one of these looms weaving drugget nineteen feet wide, yet requiring no more attention than an ordinary loom; while the finest and heaviest silks were being woven without fault in a similar loom beside the former. Though this invention is scarcely a year old, and its development had been greatly retarded by a fire which consumed the inventor's premises six months since, yet more than forty of his looms are now regularly at work, and hundreds more will be so as soon as they can be made. In fact, the weaving of the world must rapidly be transferred to looms based on this invention.

A THRILLING scene occurred at the exhibition of Ames' Menagerie lask week, at Subury, Pa., in which Eugenie, the lady who enters the den of lions, narrowly escaped a horrid death. It appears that one of the lions became ferocious at the conduct of a number of men on the outside of the cage, and threw Eugenie on the floor, placing its prodigious paws on her face, lacerating one of her cheeks. She is said to have had presence of mind enough to cover the blood with her handkerchief, thus preventing the brute from smelling it. She lay in this condition for some time, when the paws were removed and she slowly passed out of the cage.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

☞ SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists. mv19:151-d&F

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

City Councils meet Monday at two o'clock P. M.

The Allegheny Mayor's Office was without an item yesterday.

Warm—the weather with the mercury up to 82 degrees in the shade.

Republicans of the Second ward, Allegheny, and McClure township are directed to notices on the fifth page of to-day's paper.

Monongahela Wharf Committee.—There will be a meeting of the Monongahela Wharf Committee of Councils this (Saturday) evening, at four o'clock, at Council Room.

Religious.—First Christian Church, corner of Beaver street and Montgomery avenue, Allegheny, Joseph King, Pastor. The Evening Services, which have been intermitted in this Church for the past four weeks, will be resumed to-morrow evening, August 29th.

Invitation.—Farmers and strangers in the city, as well as citizens, are invited to-day, by Mr. S. F. von Bonnhorst, the courteous Secretary and Treasurer of the Safe Deposit Company, to call on Monday and Tuesday next to inspect the elegant new building just completed on Fourth avenue.

Threatened Her.—The warm weather seems to have a pugilistic effect on Julia Haney. She is charged with threatening to put an end to the existence of Priscilla Moore. Priscilla became alarmed and sought Alderman Taylor's legal safety. The Alderman issued a warrant for the arrest of Julia.

In Town.—L. Jeff. Sprengle, Esq., the able editor of the Ashland, Ohio, Times, paid our sanctum a visit yesterday. He is here on business connected with the sale of his improved cider press and other agricultural implements. His many friends in this locality will be pleased to welcome him.

Alleged Embezzlement.—Yesterday, Samuel Gilliland made information before Alderman McMasters against Robert Nelson for embezzlement. Gilliland is proprietor of the Pittsburgh Local Express, and alleges that Nelson, who was employed as driver, appropriated eight dollars belonging to him. Warrant issued.

The Last Lecture of the present series on the Personal Deity, by Rev. A. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Fifth avenue, will be delivered to-morrow evening. These lectures have been largely attended throughout, remarkably so for the sultry summer evenings. The seats are free in this church.

Aggravated Assault and Battery.—Benjamin Hunter made information before Justice Salisbury, yesterday, charging John McClintock, Michael Hughes and Wm. Woods, with aggravated assault and battery. Warrants were issued and Hughes was arrested and held for a hearing. The officers have not yet succeeded in finding Woods and M'Clintock.

Trouble in Moving.—Yesterday Catharine Garrat called on Alderman Thomas to settle a little difficulty which had arisen between her and James McCarroll. She put it on the ground of assault and battery, and alleged that while she was attempting to move her household effects from a dwelling in the Sixth ward she was interfered with by James, who prevented her, using violence in doing so. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

An Elegant Time Piece.—In our notice of the Pittsburgh Female College which elsewhere appears this morning, we failed to observe that the institution has just been supplied with one of the finest timepieces ever brought to the city, both regarding its machinery and furniture. It was imported direct from Vienna, Europe, for the College by the well-known Market street jewelry house of J. B. McFadden & Co. and is not the least attractive piece of furniture in this elegantly fitted educational establishment.

Hasty Action.—Sometimes people are in haste to perform actions for which they repent at lesuire, as for instance: Yesterday Samuel Hays made information against the proprietor of a public house on Diamond street, for assault and battery, allegging that he had, while in a fit of intoxication, kicked him out of the house. A hearing was had in the case, but the prosecutor failed to prove his charges and the accused was set at liberty. Hay's repentance came when he was compelled to pay the costs.

Careless Driving.—Last evening about five o'clock, a woman with a child in her arms, who had just stepped off a car at the corner of Fifth avenue and Smithfield street, was knocked down and run over by a buggy, which was being rapidly driven past by two fast young chaps, who had no fear of the law or the police before their eyes. The woman and child escaped serious injuries, the former receiving only a few scratches on the face. The police were not about at the time, else the city revenue might have been increased slightly.

Our Allegheny Subscribers.

Some complaints having reached us from Allegheny City of the non-delivery, or late delivery of the GAZETTE, we have to say that our arrangements are for the delivery of the paper to all our Allegheny subscribers at from 5 to 7 o'clock A. M. If any fail of delivery or are not dropped before 7 o'clock A. M., we will thank the subscribers to leave notice of the delinquency at the office, in order that the evil may be remedied.

In Trouble.

Yesterday Rose McKenna made information before Alderman Neeper, charging James Burke with forniz et cet.. The parties, it appears are residents of Birmingham, and for over two years past it is alleged that the accused has been on terms of intimacy with the deponent. About three weeks since he effectually broke off that intimacy by taking to wife another lady of his acquaintance, since which time the deponent has become a mother. Burke was arrested and in default of bail for a hearing was committed to jail.

Ownership in Dispute.

The question of ownership of the Allegheny Local Express was brought before Alderman McMasters yesterday, when Samuel Gilliland brought information against Mrs. Price for forcible entry and detainer. Gilliland alleges Mrs. Price broke open a stable in Beaver street, Allegheny, in which a number of horses, belonging to him, were standing, and coming thus in possession has since refused to allow him to take away the animals. He alleges they are his, while she claims them as her property. The suit is brought to decide the matter. The horses are used in the local express wagons, of which Gilliland claims to be proprietor. Warrant issued.

The Second Ward again in the Field for Active Political Work.

The Second Ward Marching Phalanx of the Geary Republican Club met last evening at headquarters, No. 66 Smithfield street, for the purpose of thoroughly reorganizing for the present campaign. The meeting organized by calling Mr. Simon Strouse to the chair. On accepting the honor, Mr. Strouse made a brief and pointed speech, in which he urged the active young Republicans to again be first in the political field to do good service for the cause of Geary, Williams, and the entire county ticket put forward.

Capt. T. H. Phelps announced that he had received an invitation for the club to act as an escort of honor to Senator O. P. Morton, of Indiana, from the Monongahela House to City Hall, on Tuesday evening next, on the occasion of the grand Republican meeting. The gentleman stated that music had been secured, and that the gun squad were in complete organization and would fire one hundred rounds as a salute of honor on the reception of the distinguished orator and statesman.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. T. H. Phelps, John F. Hunter and Wilson Steiner, was appointed to complete all arrangements for the reception and parade.

After able and patriotic addresses from Thomas Steel, Esq., Collector of the Port, S. F. Keeler, Esq. and others, the Club adjourned with three rousing cheers for Geary, Williams and the county ticket. Another meeting will be held at the same place to-night, when a book for the enrollment of marching members for the campaign will be opened. What ward will follow the old Second in the work of reorganization for the present canvass?

Caught in Time.

Darkness is much more favorable for thieving excursions than daylight. It is generally unsafe to enter houses while the sun is up, in such evil designs intent, and often the depredator comes suddenly to grief. It happened so yesterday to Charles Fincke, who had just arrived in this vicinity from the South and commenced operations. He selected the residence of Mr. Isaac Mills, Jr., at Braddock's Fields, as a base. Entering the house by one of the upper windows, he succeeded in moving about so quietly that none of the inmates, engaged in the lower rooms, knew of his presence. Having secured his plunder he made his egress out of the same window and chuckled to himself at the success attending his efforts. His joy was of short duration. Mr. Mills happened to be driving in front of the house at that instant, and observing the chap emerging from the window, immediately gave chase, and after a short run succeeded in capturing him. The fellow shook with fear, and dropped a gold watch and a broadcloth suit of clothing valued at $70, which he had taken. Mr. Mills brought his man into the city and made informatton against him before Alderman McMasters for larceny. He was immediately committed to jail for a hearing. He expressed himself as well satisfied with the turn affairs had taken, as he felt better pleased to be sent to jail than to have his liberty and starve.

The Coming Theatrical Season.

The Fall and Winter Season of the Opera House will commence one week from next Monday evening, under the very excellent managership of our popular amusement caterer, Mr. Matt Canning. The stock company has been selected with much good care, and will compare favorably with any that has ever graced the boards in this city. The management has thus far made arrangements for the appearance, in succession, of the following well-known troupes: Worrell Sisters, Lydia Thompson, Riching's Opera, and the Morlacchi Pantominists. Among the stars will appear Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, John E. Owens, Edwin Forrest, Leffingwell, Lucille Western, Miss Mariott, John Brougham, John Emmett, Maggie Mitchell, Joseph Jefferson, Lotta, Mrs. D. P. Bowers, F. S. Chanfrau, Joseph Proctor, Mary Mitchell and J. Albaugh. Negotiations are going forward for other first-class stars and troupes, so that we can confidently look forward for a bright array of talent and a brilliant season for 1869—70.

Tobacco Seizure.

On Wednesday last Collector Davis and the tobacco inspector discovered a quantity of tobacco in this city, upon which the revenue tax had not been paid, although it appeared to bear all the required brands and stamps, the latter, however, being counterfeit. Twenty boxes bearing these stamps were found in Allegheny City, and about twice that number at two houses in this city, all of which had been shipped for R. M. Dobson & Co., Cincinnati. The boxes also bore the brand of a Philadelphia house, which, however, it is thought, had been put upon them to aid in concealing the fraud. The stamps are said to be well executed, and well calculated to deceive. We are informed, not officially, however, that Collector Davis telegraphed to Cincinnati and had the shipper of the tobacco arrested. We were unable to obtain further particulars.

A Pleasant Occasion.

A more interesting occasion is seldom witnessed, than was that which occurred in the hall of the Fourth ward school house last evening. The members of the Reformed Presbyterian congregation (O. S.), Rev. A. M. Milligan, met in the above-named hall for the purpose of presenting their pastor with a horse and barouche. The presentation speech was made by Prof. J. R. Newell, who seemed in his happiest mood and whose remarks were highly interesting. The pastor replied in a feeling manner, which conveyed to his people his appreciation of their kindness. Speeches were made by Prof. Sloan of the Reformed Presbyterian Seminary, Prof. I. A. Macrum and others. Seldom have we seen such good feeling manifested by any people, and we take it as an evidence of Mr. Milligan's usefulness to the people among whom he labors.

Irving Institute.

We have been requested to announce the reopening of this School for Young Ladies and Misses, at Nos. 10, 12, and 14 Sixth street, late St. Clair, on Monday, September 6th; also that the Principal, Mrs. E. A. Smith, can be seen at the rooms of the institute from 9 to 12 o'clock every forenoon next week; at other hours, at her residence, No. 31 Lincoln avenue, Allegheny.

With first-class accommodations, number of pupils limited, patronage confined to the best families in the two cities, and the Principal one of the most accomplished and successful teachers in the country, this school commends itself to the considerate attention of parents interested in the thorough and careful education of their daughters.

EDUCATIONAL.

Pittsburgh Female College—Fine Improvements—Location—Faculty—Course of Study—Patronage, &c.

As the time is at hand when parents are inquiring for suitable schools for their daughters, we can do many of our readers no better service than by calling their attention to our own well established and well conducted institution—the Pittsburgh Female College. Many persons are disposed to overlook home institutions of every kind, (though they always expect home patronage of course,) and in ninety-nine cases out of every hundred, "go farther and fare worse." "Seeing is believing," but very many never look for themselves. There are not a few citizens of Washington who have never seen the National Monument or visited Arlington Heights. Even in so important a matter as the education of their children, a matter intimately linked with their future happiness and usefulness, there is often a most reprehensible neglect. The child is handed over to the first applicant, and the most impertinent is too often the least worthy who may chance to apply. No regard is had to the facilities afforded for that thorough and varied culture which the present age demands—a culture which can be secured only where the requisite facilities exist. Every intelligent man will grant the necessity for a desire of labor in the manufacture of the most insignificant articles. The highest perfection can be secured only where such desire of labor exists. And yet in a matter of so great importance as thorough mental culture, how many are there who send their children to small schools, and often at heavy expense, where less than a half dozen teachers are expected to give all the instruction in those various branches of a solid and ornamental education which require at least three times the number. The error is too often seen when too late to remedy it.

But little more time is required to complete a course of study in a first-class school than in one of lower grade. Parents owe it to themselves, and their children as well, to make themselves acquainted with the school they patronize. To those who have daughters to educate we earnestly recommend a visit to our own sterling institution, the Pittsburgh Female College. For months past workmen have been busily employed in refitting the large and commodious buildings. There is an air of comfort and elegance about them rarely found, even in schools for ladies. The improvements have been continued from year to year, until it is difficult to conceive of anything yet to be done. Beautiful carpets, oil cloths and mattings cover every floor. No part has been overlooked, and the buildings, as a whole, are unequalled by any in the State.

LOCATION.

Scarcely less important than good buildings is a good location. In this the College is peculiarly fortunate. No equally favorable location can be found in or about these cities. Its near proximity to the Allegheny river, insures an abundance of fresh air, and, midway as it is between the two principal bridges, it is almost equally accessible to persons on both sides of the river. The termini of all the railroads, a dozen of the principal churches, the new building of the Mercantile Library Association, and, indeed, all the important centres of the city, are within a few minutes' walk of the College. And yet, with all these advantages, Eighth street is almost as quiet as the streets of a country village. Its clean, shaded sidewalks afford a delightful promenade, and parents will not fail to appreciate its exemption from the noise and danger incident to the more public and crowded thoroughfares.

FACULTY.

The crowning excellence of the College, however, is its unusually large corps of teachers. In this it has but few rivals. Twenty-two teachers are employed in the different departments. Fourteen of them reside in the building and constantly mingle with the pupils. Eighteen of the former teachers were retained for the coming year, and four new ones elected. Miss Agnes C. Way, a graduate of the School of Design, takes charge of the Drawing and Painting Department, and Miss Bullard, of Glen's Falls, N. Y., Miss Latimer, of Rochester, N. Y., and Miss Woolston, of New Jersey, fill vacancies in the Literary Department. These ladies come with the highest recommendations from leading educators for culture and experience and ability in their profession. The greatest care is always taken in the selection of teachers, and the highest compliment that can be paid the College is the fact that its teachers have been eagerly sought for here, and by Eastern schools.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The course of study is thorough and selected with great care. The ample accommodations of the College, and the large Faculty employed, enable the Trustees to accommodate those who desire a full or partial course in the solid or ornamental branches. In addition to the departments for all the ornamental branches, such as vocal and instrumental music, drawing and painting, needlework and wax-work, &c., the literary course is divided into Primary, Preparatory and Collegiate departments, so as to accommodate younger and more advanced pupils. Every room and department has its special teacher, and hence while pupils have all the advantages of a small private school, they have the additional and greater advantage of a division of labor.

PATRONAGE.

For ten years past the College has had a large patronage, not only from hundreds of our best citizens, but also from many of the best citizens of this and other states. The College has secured the confidence of its patrons by the thoroughness of its system of teaching, the careful supervision of all its pupils, and the earnest efforts made for their moral and mental culture. The examinations at the close of each term are not only public, but conducted more or less by teachers not connected with the institution.

We cannot close without once more urging our readers to visit the College, now open for the inspection of visitors, and make themselves acquainted with its accommodations, facilities and claims on their patronage. We feel well assured that those who do will endorse what we have written, and feel a becoming pride in the fact that Pittsburgh has the leading institution of the kind in the State, and the queen of western female colleges.

Narrow Escape.

About five o'clock last evening a frightful accident occurred at the Young Men's Library Hall building on Penn street, which fortunately was not attended with any serious consequences. Mr. Lindsey, a brickmason, was working at the cornice on the top scaffolding, upon which were several of the cornice stones, the combined weight of which broke the scaffolding, causing it to fall. Mr. Lindsey, finding the scaffolding giving away, caught on top of the wall by his hands, where he hung, suspended between heaven and earth, for two or three minutes, until one of his fellow-workmen passed along the wall and assisted him to get on top of it, thus relieving him from his perilous situation.

Leads off with New Goods.

Mr. Wm. G. Dunseath, the jeweler, No. 56 Fifth avenue, has taken a forward step in the lead of his competitors this season, by just receiving a fresh and large invoice of new watches, clocks and jewelry of all descriptions, which he purchased at especially cheap prices, being in advance of the regular buying season. The selection now offered his customers is one of the very finest he has ever offered, and that every one knows is saying a good deal, as the goods of this house has long been regarded as unsurpassed in quality and variety. Attention is particularly directed to sets of fine jewelry, elegant gold and silver watches, charms and ornaments. We trust none of our readers will fail to be present at the opening of new goods, as Mr. Dunseath proposes to sell at very low prices, thus sharing the advantages he secured by his early purchases with his friends and patrons.

New Goods—New Style.

W. Hespenheid & Co., Merchant Tailors, No. 50 Sixth street, formerly St. Clair, desire us to inform their numerous customers, and all others wishing anything in their line, that now is the time to call and select their goods. Mr. Hespenhied, the senior member of the firm, has just returned from New York with as handsome a stock, as well as a large variety, as has been opened in this city for years. Their stock comprises all the latest style goods, and will be made with infinite great care, and warranted to fit and please. This house sells as cheap as any good house in the city, if not cheaper. We bespeak for Hespenhied & Co. a large fall trade, knowing they sell nothing but good goods, and are always successful in fitting and pleasing their patrons.

Tobacco.

Tobacco is a native American plant of the genus Nicotina. As a medicine it is a narcotic. It is much used, however, for chewing and smoking, and to all persons using it in this form we have a word to speak. John Megraw, Tobacconist, No. 45 Hand street, has on hand one of the largest stocks of chewing and smoking tobacco, cigars, foreign and domestic, snuffs, etc., ever brought to this market, which he is selling at very reasonable prices. His stock comprises all the best brands of chewing tobacco, including the celebrated Louisville Navy, Lynchburg Twist and Virginia Cavendish, all of which are held in high favor by tobacco chewers, while smokers speak in the highest terms of his splendid Havanas and Yaras, as well as of his common cigars.

The Boulevard.

Messrs. McCowan & Co., 65 Ohio street, Allegheny, are now prepared to fill all orders for the laying of this durable and beautiful pavement. It is specially adapted for sidewalks, inside yards, cellars, drives, &c., and is warranted to withstand the changes of heat and cold in the weather. Being leveled off smooth almost as marble, when completed, it forms one of the handsomest sidewalks which can be laid, while its durability and cheapness commend it in preference to other styles. Although it is but a recent patent, the tests to which it has been subjected amply substantiate its general excellence and superiority. We advise those wishing to have good pavements laid around their properties to examine the Boulevard.

Who Knows?

A purchase of crockery ware was effected in Allegheny on Sunday morning—a considerable variety to replace a like quantity broken the night before by a business man of Allegheny while in an abnormal condition, which condition arose, or befel remotely, from some distillery. Much curiosity is felt to know who should be the plaintiff vs. the distillery in a suit for damages, and who violated the Sunday law in selling the crockery?

Fruit Jars.—One of the most important requisites in preserving fruits is a supply of the proper kind of preserving jars. The fruits may be preserved in the most careful manner, but if the receptacle in which it is placed be not perfect the labor and expense will be in vain. Messrs. S. M. Kier & Co., 363 Liberty street, have a large assortment on hand, which are guaranteed to be just what is needed.

"The Safe Deposit Company of Pittsburgh" will be open for business on Wednesday, September 1st, 1869. On Monday and Tuesday, August 30th and 31st, the building and vaults will be open for visitors. The public generally are invited to call and examine the institution.

S. F. VON BONNHORST,
Secretary and Treasurer.

One of the best evidences of the superiority of Marvin's crackers is the fact that every grocer keeps them on sale. Popularity in this instance is a severe test of merit. They are manufactured at No. 91 Liberty street.

All annoyance and trouble from sour bread during the hot weather, may be avoided by purchasing Marvin's crackers at 91 Liberty street, or at any of the groceries.

Marvin's Lemon Biscuit are simply delicions, and will be found an exceedingly pleasant and excellent substitute for sour bread during the hot weather.

Purchasers of fancy dry goods, wholesale or rotail, will study their own interests by spending money at Moorhead's, 81 Market street.

New York Circus.

On Monday this establishment will commence its exhibitions in Allegheny City, and, from the high character given to the troupe by the press in all directions, it is reasonable to anticipate from its performances something altogether superior to the usual routine of circus entertainments. Its high standing in New York is vouched for by the most influential journals of that city, and the entertainments given during the traveling season are said to be in all respects equal to those which have given the establishment its great popularity at home. The Boston Advertiser, in noticing the exhibitions of the New York Circus, says: "Let our readers go to see these performers from the great metropolis, and we think a majority of them will see how it is possible to be enthusiastic about a circus. Moreover, the entertainment is, in every respect, unexceptionable in point of refinement and propriety, and no pater familias need be afraid to take his wife or the little folks to see it. Of the equestrian and gymnastic performances we can speak in the highest praise. Contortionists and posturing men, trained horses and dogs, they who whirl upon the horizontal bar and those who leap and ride—all are the best. It is pleasant also to see how complete Mr. Lent's establishment appears to be throughout. The horses are all plump and lively, not a single quadruped that gallops on the tan having that starved and meagre aspect so common in ordinary circuses, and which provokes the inquiry from countrymen, how soon the crows are expected to foreclose their mortgage on the animals."

The Life Insurance Question.

Some of the more intelligent and candid life insurance agents doing business in this city, who thoroughly understand the system of our home company, the Co-operative, admit its greater simplicity, equity and inherent strength as compared with the ordinary plans, but recommend the companies in whose service they are employed, and it is quite right and altogether natural that they should do so. Others, probably less thoroughly informed, and possibly less candid, occasionally misrepresent the "Co-operative." This may be quite natural, but it is not altogether right. All who wish to speak understandingly are invited to call at the Company's office, 128 Smithfield street, and get full information on the subject.

The Reason Why Series.

John W. Pittock, opposite the Postoffice, has just received a new supply and is prepared to furnish complete sets of this valuable series of works, which has attained such popularity in England that the sale has already reached considerably more than ONE MILLION VOLUMES. Each work is, in fact, a practical Encyclopedia of the subjects indicated by the titles. A vast fund of valuable information, embracing every subject of interest or utility, is thus attainable, and at a merely nominal cost. The majority of the volumes are illustrated, and to each is appended a complete index of its contents. There are fifteen volumes in the series, but any work desired can be had seperately.

The language of nature and experience demonstrates that whoever would enjoy the pleasures of food, the beauties of landscape, the joys of companionship, the riches of literature, or the honors of station and renown, must preserve their health. The effect of foul, injurious food, entering the stomach, is to derange the digestive organs and produce headache, loss of appetite, unrefreshing sleep, low spirits, feverish burnings, etc., which are the symptoms of that horrid disease, Dyspepsia, which assumes a thousand shapes, and points toward a miserable life and premature decay. PLANTATION BITTERS will prevent, overcome and counteract all of these effects. They act with unerring power, and are taken with the pleasure of a beverage.

The Imbroglio between the Sixth street merchant tailors, the big Nos. 11 and 13 establishments, has demonstrated how popular is the house of S. Trauerman, with its accomplished business manager, Mr. James Samuels. This establishment sells goods so reasonable and so cheap, and so good, that it excites the ire of every rival house, and puzzles them to know how they manage to live on such small profits. Thence the troubles.

Lemon and Fruit Biscuit, Water, Butter, Sugar, Boston. Cream and Wine Crackers, and Ginger Snaps, Spiced Jumbles, &c., are some of the varieties obtained at Marvin's, 91 Liberty street. Everything sweet and fresh coming from this superior establishment.

To-day, every lady in Pittsburgh may find a choice and fashionable assortment of fancy goods, trimmings, &c., at Moorhead's, 81 Market street.

Merit Wears Well

The name of Dr. G. W. Spencer is closely identified with the science of dentistry, and for many years past he has held leading positions among the most eminent dentists of the country. We are glad to learn that his patronage is as large as ever and that his elegant rooms, No 254 Penn street, are constantly thronged with those anxious to embrace themselves of his skill, thus proving that true merit wears well. Dr. Spencer attends to all matters pertaining to his profession, and has made high reputation as a dental artist. He rivals the first of Parisian artists in the manufacture of false teeth a branch of business in which he is largely patronized and eminently successful.
